

This is in opposition of any weakening of Indiana's phone solicitation law. Bottomline, consumers should have the choice of contacting those whom they want to do business with and be free of unsolicited contact. I do not need those banks I do business with contacting me- I'll call them when I need service.